Vaccine Impact Modelling Consortium
The Vaccine Impact Modelling Consortium coordinates the work of several research groups modelling the impact of vaccination programmes worldwide.
The Consortium was established at the end of 2016 for a period of five years, and is currently coordinated by a secretariat based at Imperial College London.
As its core objective, the Consortium aims to deliver a more sustainable, efficient, and transparent approach to generating disease burden and vaccine impact estimates. Furthermore, the Consortium will work on aggregating the estimates across a portfolio of ten vaccine-preventable diseases and further advancing the research agenda in the field of vaccine impact modelling.

The Vaccine Impact Modelling Consortium: just another group involved in the junk science of computer modelling for epidemics. It in under the umbrella of Imperial College London, and is heavily funded by Gates and GAVI. Of course, GAVI is heavily funded by Gates.

The Department of Infectious Disease Epidemiology at Imperial College London is one of the largest academic departments specialising in infectious disease epidemiology in Europe. Its highly interdisciplinary research focuses on the transmission, evolution, and control of infectious diseases in human and animal populations. The Department's particular strengths are in epidemiological and genetic analysis and mathematical modelling, backed by focussed field and experimental research.
The research work spans a wide range of disease areas, including emerging infectious

Guided by the belief that every life has equal value, the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation works to help all people lead healthy, productive lives. In developing countries, it focuses on improving people's health and giving them the chance to lift themselves out of hunger and extreme poverty. In the United States, it seeks to ensure that all people—especially those with the fewest resources—have access to the opportunities they need to succeed in school and life. Based in Seattle, Washington, the foundation is led by CEO Dr. Susan Desmond-Hellmann and Co-chair William H. Gates Sr., under the direction of Bill and Melinda Gates and Warren Buffett.

Strange that the coronavirus isn't listed. After all, this group is closely tied to Gates and GAVI. However, it seems to be involved in everything else under the sun.

In 2016, a donation of $5.6 million was awarded to Imperial College London to establish the Vaccine Impact Modelling Consortium. As the name implies, it would work on computer models to predict viruses and vaccine treatments. Of course, models are just predictions, and are not evidence of anything.

Know Who This Group Works For

The takeaway here is simple: when research is released, always know who is funding it, and where their allegiances lie. Vaccine Impact Modelling Consortium is no different.

Absolutely nothing to worry about, right?
Just roll up you sleeve and accept the jab.
Sounds perfectly safe.
